

Susan Waldstein

Adjunct Professor of Theology
Ave Maria University
Ave Maria, FL 34142

Phone: (239) 455-6688

Email: susan.waldstein@avemaria.edu

Education:

1978 B.A., Thomas Aquinas College, California

2002 S.T.M., summa cum laude, International Theological Institute, Gaming Austria,.

2005 S.T.L., summa cum laude, International Theological Institute, Gaming Austria,.

Thesis: The Theological Significance of Hierarchy in Nature

2013 S.T.D., magna cum laude, University of Fribourg, Switzerland,.

Dissertation: Mercy and Self Gift; Exploring the Implicit Connections between Charles DeKoninck's Evolutionary Biology and Theological Principles

Teaching Experience:

Adjunct professor of theology at Ave Maria University, Florida 2008-present

Assistant professor of theology at International Theological Institute, Gaming Austria
2002-2008

Academic Work:

Participant and Speaker at Discovery Institute's "Intelligent Design Seminar," Summer 2015. "Catholicism and Evolution."

Organizer and Speaker at conference "Logos and Eros: Intelligent Design and Thomism", Ave Maria University February 2015. "Mercy and Self Gift in Evolution"

Participant and Speaker at ISN Conference "Hans Jonas and the Rediscovery of Nature" at M.I.T., summer 2008. "Hans Jonas and Natural Hierarchy."

Public Service:

Member, Pontifical Council for the Family 2003-2009.

Member, Vatican Commission on Jewish-Christian Dialogue on Marriage 2004-2005.

Public lectures and retreats on marriage, family spirituality, and home education in USA, Austria, Slovakia, and Vatican (1986-present).

Personal:

Born September 4, 1956 in San Francisco, USA.

Married since June 13, 1978 with Michael Waldstein.

Mother and home educator of eight children.